

The Collaborative Research Center (CRC) "Future Rural Africa. Future-making and social-ecological transformation" combines expertise from the two Universities of Bonn and Cologne to study newly emerging issues of social-ecological transformation and future-making in Africa.

Project A03 with the title Agro-Futures: scales of variability, human-environment interactions, and patterns in agro landscapes invites applications for one doctoral researcher.

The position is temporary and to be staffed from 01.04.2018 for the duration of three years.

Doctoral Researcher (f/m)
(EG 13 TV-L, 65%)

- You have:
- A M.Sc. or equivalent degree in Geography, Hydrology, or Environmental Science
 - Excellent knowledge of hydrological and hydraulic modelling, LULUC modelling, experience in scenario modelling, basic knowledge in transdisciplinary research, experience in research in Africa
 - Excellent command of written and spoken English
 - Ability and willingness to travel independently for extended periods of time (fieldwork in Tanzania)
 - Good knowledge of the software packages SWAT, HEC RAS
- You are:
- Flexible, team oriented and interested in continuing your professional development
- We offer:
- A challenging and diverse function that comprises exiting research topics in the field of socio-hydrology, well equipped technical environment for appropriate work, nice international working group
 - Participation in innovative and current research set in an outstanding international research environment
 - Remuneration in accordance with pay grade EG 13 TV-L
 - A multifaceted work environment
 - Support to achieve compatibility of family and career
 - Participation in the regional ticket program of the VRS (public transport)

Equal opportunity is an integral part of our human resources management.

Further information on the project is available to you on www.crc228.de or by contacting Prof. Dr. Mariele Evers, University of Bonn, Meckenheimer Allee 166, 53175 Bonn, Phone: 0228 733526, E-Mail: mariele.evers@uni-bonn.de

If you're interested to fill the vacancy, please send your complete and informative application documents including your education certificates electronically (one PDF file) to mariele.evers@uni-bonn.de until the 31st of January 2018. Interviews are to be held in early February 2018.

The Collaborative Research Center (CRC) "Future Rural Africa. Future-making and social-ecological transformation" combines expertise from the two Universities of Bonn and Cologne to study newly emerging issues of social-ecological transformation and future-making in Africa.

Project C02 with the title Energy Futures: Infrastructures and governance for renewable energies invites applications for one doctoral researcher.

The position is temporary and to be staffed from 01.04.2018 for the duration of three years.

Doctoral Researcher (f/m)
(EG 13 TV-L, 65%)

- You have:
- A master degree in Human Geography or related disciplines with an interest in infrastructure, investment and human-environmental relations in Africa
 - Excellent knowledge of economic geography and/or African economies as well as qualitative methods
 - Excellent command of written and spoken English
 - Fitness for travel and work in the tropics, including the willingness to do fieldwork in remote areas (in Kenya)
 - Proven work or travel experience in the Global South
 - Of additional advantage are: Research or study experience in Sub-Saharan Africa, a driving license and driving experience in Africa
- You are:
- Flexible, team oriented and interested in continuing your professional development
- We offer:
- A challenging and diverse function that comprises the design and conduct of research on the implementation of geothermal energy infrastructures in Baringo, Kenya and the related changes in human-environmental relations with a focus on investment and investor relations
 - Participation in innovative and current research set in an outstanding international research environment
 - Remuneration in accordance with pay grade EG 13 TV-L
 - A multifaceted work environment
 - Support to achieve compatibility of family and career
 - Participation in the regional ticket program of the VRS (public transport)

Equal opportunity is an integral part of our human resources management.

Further information on the project is available to you on www.crc228.de or by contacting Prof. Dr. Britta Klagge, University of Bonn, Meckenheimer Allee 166, 53175 Bonn, E-Mail: klagge@uni-bonn.de.

To apply, please send all relevant documents in one PDF file to Prof. Dr. Britta Klagge, wigeo@uni-bonn.de. Your application should include a letter of motivation, your CV, your last thesis (incl. summary of max. five pages) and the contact details of two referees. Job interviews will be conducted in the week 05.-09.02.2018; review of applications will start in mid-January until the application deadline 31st of January 2018.

The Collaborative Research Center (CRC) "Future Rural Africa. Future-making and social-ecological transformation" combines expertise from the two Universities of Bonn and Cologne to study newly emerging issues of social-ecological transformation and future-making in Africa.

Project C04 with the title Smart Futures? Transforming human-nature relations through mobile information services invites applications for two doctoral researchers.

The positions are temporary and to be staffed from 01.04.2018 for the duration of three years.

Doctoral Researcher (f/m)
(EG 13 TV-L, 65%)

- You have:
- A M.A. or MSc. degree in Human Geography, Anthropology or Science & Technology Studies with an interest in current theoretical debates on human/nature/technology relations
 - First experiences in ethnographic research (participant observation) and/or some regional expertise in Eastern Africa
 - The ability and willingness to travel independently for extended periods of time (fieldwork in Southern Tanzania)
 - Excellent command of written and spoken English, a basic knowledge of or the willingness to learn Kiswahili
- You are:
- Flexible, team oriented and interested in continuing your professional development in an interdisciplinary context
- We offer:
- A challenging and diverse function that allows for an in-depth understanding and empirical grounding of current debates on ICT4D with a focus on the construction, mediation and translation of knowledge and information through selected mobile information services
 - Participation in innovative and current research set in an outstanding international research environment
 - Remuneration in accordance with pay grade EG 13 TV-L
 - A multifaceted work environment
 - Support to achieve compatibility of family and career
 - Participation in the regional ticket program of the VRS (public transport)

Equal opportunity is an integral part of our human resources management.

Further information on the project is available to you on www.crc228.de or by contacting Prof. Dr. Julia Verne, University of Bonn, Meckenheimer Allee 166, 53175 Bonn, E-Mail: julia.verne@uni-bonn.de.

If you're interested to fill the vacancy, please send your complete and informative application documents including your education certificates electronically (one PDF file) to julia.verne@uni-bonn.de until the 31st of January 2018. Interviews are to be held in early February 2018.

The Collaborative Research Center (CRC) "Future Rural Africa. Future-making and social-ecological transformation" combines expertise from the two Universities of Bonn and Cologne to study newly emerging issues of social-ecological transformation and future-making in Africa.

Project C03 with the title Green Futures: Ecological Growth and the Politics of Land-Use Change invites applications for three Doctoral Researchers.

The positions are temporary and to be staffed from 01.04.2018 for the duration of three years.

Doctoral Researcher (f/m)
(EG 13 TV-L, 65%)

- You have:
- A M.Sc. or equivalent degree in in geography or related disciplines
 - Excellent knowledge of social-geographical methods
 - The ability and willingness to travel independently for extended periods of time (fieldwork in Africa)
 - Excellent command of written and spoken English, a basic knowledge of or the willingness to learn Kiswahili
- You are:
- Flexible, team oriented and interested in continuing your professional development in an interdisciplinary context
- We offer:
- A challenging and diverse function that comprises qualitative empirical research, interviews, participant observation, and contributions to a comparative project in Kenya, Tanzania and Namibia
 - Participation in innovative and current research set in an outstanding international research environment
 - Remuneration in accordance with pay grade EG13 TV-L
 - A multifaceted work environment
 - Support to achieve compatibility of family and career
 - Participation in the regional ticket program of the VRS (public transport)

Equal opportunity is an integral part of our human resources management.

Further information on the project is available to you on www.crc228.de or by contacting Prof. Dr. Detlef Müller-Mahn, University of Bonn, Meckenheimer Allee 166, 53175 Bonn, E-Mail: mueller-mahn@uni-bonn.de.

If you're interested to fill the vacancy, please send your complete and informative application documents including your education certificates electronically (one PDF file) to mueller-mahn@uni-bonn.de until the 31st of January 2018. Interviews are to be held in early February 2018.